

Please do not let local syndicated religious broadcasters take up all of the translator stations. These frequencies should be used for local LPFM stations that promote diversity, and localism, rather than just more damn preaching by the godcasters.

By the way - I am registered republican, and consider myself conservative, but I do NOT advocate the religious community attempts to silence any voices but their own. Which indeed, in this case they are trying to do. LPFM has the capability to air religious programs of all kinds, representative of their community. That is the democratic way of airing public opinion.

Let Translators relay distant stations as they are supposed to do, not serve the dubious purposes of local greedy evangelists trying to block true diversity.
